Telephone Manager Goes to Akron

Carl F. Willman

LEIGH E. NICHOLS

Salem will have a new telephone commercial manager on May 1, as the result of the promotion of Leigh E. Nichols, the present commercial manager, to the Ohio Bell Telephone company division office in Akron.

Mr. Nichols is succeeded by Carl F. Willman, who comes here from the Cleveland office. The change was announced today by J. M. Hogan, Ohio Bell district commercial manager at Youngstown.

The new manager has been sales manager for the Telephone company in Cleveland for the last few years. Previously he held numerous positions in the commercial department. He began his telephone career in December, 1926, as a clerk in Cleveland. He advanced rapidly through the ranks and in February, 1932, he was made district commercial manager. A few months later he was appointed assistant division sales manager. Mr. Willman is married and has a son.

Mr. Nichols' promotion comes after three years as commercial manager here. He came to Salem from Painesville where he had been head of the commercial department for over a year. Prior to that time he worked in the Cleveland commercial offices, having started in that city on April 1, 1925, as a clerk. His new title will be assistant division commercial supervisor of the Ohio Bell Akron division.

SCHOOL PLANS
BAND CONCERTProceeds From Annual Event Will Boost
Uniform Fund

C. M. Brautigam's Salem High school band will present its annual concert Wednesday evening, April 24, at the school auditorium, with two definite objects in view.

First will be the presentation of an extraordinarily attractive program of music. And, second, the band hopes to obtain enough funds by means of the small admission that will be charged, to put its uniform fund "over the top."

Seek 50 Uniforms

Band members and students in general have been busy all the present term raising funds with which to put new uniforms on the band members and it appears possible that enough funds will be on hand, with the assistance of music lovers, to provide equipment for the 50 members of the unit before school closes.

Director Brautigam is now engaged in completing his program, which will present a variety of selections.

Among the features will be a trumpet-trombone duet, "Silver Threads Among the Gold," with variations by Jackie Harroff and Harold McConner.

The overture, "Golden Dragon," will be played, featuring also baritone solos throughout by Charles Freed.

The popular numbers will not be slighted in the program. Among the selections in this division are such well known songs as "Happy Days Are Here Again," "Moon Glow," "Love in Bloom," and "Bugle Call Rag."

"Barnum and Bailey's Favorite," and Semper Fidelis, by Sousa, will be among the march selections chosen for the program.

As an additional feature there will be entertainment during the intermission of a somewhat professional nature. Misses Hazel and Martha Farmer, playing Spanish and Hawaiian guitars, who have a number of theatrical appearances to their credit already, are scheduled to entertain.

Director Brautigam announces that all members of the bands are selling tickets for the concert.

GEORGIA RELIEF IS TAKEN OVER
BY U. S. CHIEF

Relations Strained Between Gov. Talmadge and Hopkins

SOUTHERN CHIEF
HINTS 3RD PARTY

Move Follows Similar Action In Ohio and Louisiana

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, April 19.—The administration of relief funds in Georgia—whose governor yesterday said President Roosevelt was a radical and predicted a third party in 1936—was taken over today by the federal government.

Announcement was made by Harry L. Hopkins, the relief administrator, whose relations with Governor Eugene F. Talmadge of President Roosevelt's "other state" have been somewhat strained.

Directs Two Other States

He recently took over federal relief activities in Louisiana. Earlier, similar action had been taken in Ohio following charges of a "political shakedown."

Hopkins' announcement today followed an assertion yesterday by Secretary Ickes that Senator Long (D. La.) had "halitosis of the intellect" and that he did not "know how to do business" with Talmadge. Simultaneously, Hopkins granted Georgia $1,700,000 for April relief.

Hopkins named Miss Gay B. Shepperson, present state relief administrator, as head of the new federal set-up in Georgia.

No funds had been granted Georgia for April relief because it had not complied with Hopkins' demand that it increase its contributions.

Up To The State

Hopkins announced that after June 1 no federal funds would be given for direct relief in Georgia, which he said "will become the responsibility of the state and local governments."

Relief officials said April funds would be made available.

Hopkins had called on Georgia to contribute $2,000,000 to relief during 1935, but the state legislature adjourned without making a relief appropriation.

Yesterday, Hopkins said Talmadge, one of his most frequent critics, had not attempted to secure the appropriation.

The time for the egg rolling party tomorrow is 10 a. m., at which time boys and girls under 7 years will assemble at Reilly field. The older ones will hunt eggs hidden at the park.

REMOVAL CHARGES AGAINST THOMAS
WITHDRAWN TODAYSoviet Air Chief
Warns of Germany's Chemical Warfare

(By Associated Press) MOSCOW, April 19.—M. Khripin, chief of the Soviet military air force, issued an appeal today through the authoritative organ Pravda urging all countries to unite in face of what he declared were German preparations for an aerial, chemical and bacteriological war.

"Germany is prepared to use the worst of poison," he charged. "It is doubtful that she will stop even at bacteriological warfare."

The danger of a bacteriological attack, the air chief wrote would be the greatest for countries separated from Germany by water, since there would be less chance of disease spreading to Germany. This observation was generally interpreted as intended as a warning to Great Britain.

The air chief forecast that the next war "will be more cruel than any to date."

Resignation of Former Chief Will Become
Effective May 1PRESENT STAFF
CONTINUES WORKAppeal Hearing Dismissed;
No Reasons for Action Given

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, April 19.—As suddenly as he was suspended as warden of Ohio penitentiary four months ago, Preston E. Thomas was reinstated today to the position he held for 23 years.

Mrs. Margaret Allman, director of the Ohio state civil service commission and the receipt of Thomas' resignation, effective May 1.

The arrangement makes no change in the present directing staff of Ohio penitentiary. Thomas requested that he be relieved of active service until his resignation becomes effective in 12 days.

Thomas, who was in the midst of an appeal from his removal before the civil service commission, will receive his full salary as warden from the time he was suspended, Jan. 26, until May 1, Mrs. Allman said.

Only a hint of the impending action had been given. A few days ago, attorneys for the deposed warden had denied making an offer to resign in event Thomas was reinstated.

Others Not Reinstated

Likewise, only a hint was given before Governor Davey on Jan. 25 announced the suspension of Thomas for 30 days and the abolishment of the positions of mail censor and prison matron, held by Thomas' daughter, Amanda, and his wife, respectively. Mrs. Allman did not reinstate them to their positions.

While the reason behind the reinstatement of Thomas and his immediate resignation was not explained by Mrs. Allman, many believed it was actuated by uncertainty as to whether or not the commission would uphold the removal order and a desire by the warden to place himself back in good standing in order that he might become eligible for a pension in event a state employee retirement bill now before the legislature should be enacted.

Davey Has No Comment

Governor Davey declined to comment on Mrs. Allman's action, asserting, "the letters speak for themselves."

Don Thomas, attorney of Dayton who has been a member of Thomas' counsel in the appeal to the commission, asserted the former warden would have carried his case before the common pleas court on a mandamus action in event the civil service decision had gone against him.

The reinstatement and resignation concludes the hearing, which adjourned last night until Tuesday.

Chance For Huey

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 19.—That was a great flight the Pan-American made. They will do some great work out there. I have often wondered why the army and navy don't make the flight almost regularly.

A night or so ago I went to listen to Amelia Earhart tell of making it. Don't miss it. Her personality equals her flying skill.

Huey has the greatest chance he has had, now. The government is spending too much. A state, if it had the will and the leadership, could work itself out. So, if he refused any money, pitched in and did it, then he would prove something. It could be done.

SPECIALISTS

"We are willing to offer not only our talents but our lives in case war should come."

The Chicago Girls Flying club, with a roster of 20 licensed airplane pilots, has gone on record in favor of training women pilots for war service. The idea, proposed before, seems to be gaining converts.

Aviation is a highly specialized branch of military service. Aviators would be in demand in event of war. Women pilots who have qualified for licenses naturally would like to think there was going to be a place for them if war occurred.

It's difficult to think of any way to prevent their martial spirit from effervescing. Apparently, sex places few limitations on their ability to operate airplanes. In Russia, it is said, women would rather play with planes and parachutes than anything else.

Once, it used to be a pretty common theory that women were constitutionally opposed to war. Perhaps that was because in the old-fashioned war there was nothing a woman could do as well as a man on the battlefield.

The machine age may make things different. Women can fly airplanes. They can drive trucks and tanks. They can drop a gas bomb. They can be increasingly useful in the one branch of the service which always has been willing to use them, the intelligence.

When they have found their places in the highly specialized armies of modern times pacifists no longer will be able to depend on mothers, sweethearts and sisters to shudder at the horror of slaughter. They will be specialists in it, themselves.

SHIFTING THE RESPONSIBILITY

The senate is nervous again over the Costigan-Wagner anti-lynching bill, first introduced a year ago last January. It is a ghost which can be made to walk on the command of its masters, the able and energetic lawyer from New York and the purposeful gentleman from Colorado. Senators Wagner and Costigan violated the hospitality rules of the "most exclusive club on earth" by introducing such a bill.

Southern senators turn purple and start making speeches at its mention. Listen to Sen. Smith, South Carolina:

"Senators will find before this bill shall be passed that the action of the country which has had the problem to face and the humility to suffer will not be invigorated against those who seek not of the problems involved. Nothing to us is more dear than the purity and sanctity of our womanhood and, so help us God, no man shall violate it without paying the just penalty which should be inflicted upon the beast who invades the sanctity of our womanhood."

Sen. Smith's sincerity and deep feeling are obvious. They reveal the real problem of lynching, which isn't violation of a fixed standard of conduct but violent disregard over the proper way for one section of the country to handle its own peculiar problem. It is a stern reminder of the fact the United States is a large country in which a certain amount of difficulty inevitably is met in applying universal rules.

The Costigan-Wagner anti-lynching bill, contrary to common belief, does not make lynching a federal crime. It is left in the category of common crime, where it manifestly belongs. The "failure, neglect or refusal" of law officers in punishing the crime is made a federal offense under the definition of that equal protection of the laws guaranteed by the 14th amendment to the Constitution. As the south sees the bill, it is an attempt to shift from states to the federal government the responsibility for doing a thing which doesn't need to be done.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, April 19.—Thoughts while strolling. Chinked laughter on fences makes me think of Hemingway. With a mouthful of smoke, say O. Sogio and you have three rings. Some of those marble avenue perfume shops call for peacocks. That soapy shine of Jack Dempsey's.

Look alike: Gar Wood and Judge Landis. Does the orchestra play loud for Rubinoff's high notes so he can find them? Eli. (at) —three empty sky-scrappers in a row. Ethel Mercer's pretty pout. And R. E. MacAlarney's twinkling. Jezebels of jazz out but-terflying.

Floyd Gibbons burns up 80 no-nicotine cigarettes a day. Dwight Fike has become the phonograph record king. The poet Barron Ireland is a grandson of Nate Shagbary. Buffalo Bills first partner. For a book title: "Possessive People." What became of Yascha Hunchuk?

Anybody bridge is a refuge from dull talk. Jascha Heifetz and his teacher-dad. Nothing relieves a mad spell like a good old door slamming. Nobody can wear those flouncy things like Mrs. Buis Baer. If Robert Bentley doesn't watch his calories, he'll become Intestine's Fat Boy.

The Chevalier big-check shirt crase. Imagine Frank Crowninshield in golf togs instead of a dinner jacket—but there he is! The magazines have gone daffy and dizzy over the Deans. Why not invent wireless celery? Will Hays is a look-alike for Jack-in-the-box. And just as pop-uppy.

A true romance of the newspaper shops concerns a managing editor and a girl reporter. He had heckled her many times before the staff. One day a particularly venomous outburst crumpled her in a heap at her desk. Later she went to his office. "I'm leaving," she glared. He looked up. "Leaving?" he purred. "Don't be silly. You are doing nothing of the sort. You are marrying me this evening. And she did."

The late Charles Chapin was a master of news room scorn. His sadistic glee in bawling out a reporter before the staff made him the most hated city editor on Park Row. Hugo Hailing, a blond Viking out of the northwest, was among the few to return fire. Hailing came in late one morning and was tipping to his desk. He thought he would make the grade but a whip-like voice snapped "Hailing!" He halted. "What's the idea of pussyfooting around me," snarled the ogre. "I always walk that way around stunks," retorted the scribe, making a bee line for Doc Perry's.

Irving Berlin appears lost to his native New York for some time. Hollywood has an option on his presence and services for months. His recent madrigals for the movies took on something of a furore. With the exile of his king, there is little left to that nebulous area known as Tin Pan Alley save memory and vagrant reminders such as this. Berlin is a part of the glamorous Broadway raga-to-riche tradition—an integral of the street, like the Winter Garden, Ziegfeld, Hector's, George Cohan and Landy's.

Most fugitive of the creative arts, incidentally, is the composition of music. The tune writer's brain hums with stray arias in mumbled rotation that may mean fortune. That is if set down at once. Lost they are gone forever. Jerome Kern is absolute top of the moderns but much of his success is due to netting snatches that, like wandering pollen, drift from the mysterious great source. No matter where he is he jots them down instantly and sticks them around various pianos in his Bronxville or California home. When he squares off for an operetta his labours thus become largely elimination.

I passed the darkened Claremont Inn this dusk. To the eye it seemed headed for the municipal scrap heap after going through several civic experimentations ranging from a Roger Wolfe Kahn band to a sailor-and-his-gal dance place. It was last of the naive decade's exclusive restaurants. For Sunday morning breakfasts it often lured Mrs. Fiske. I somehow recalled, too, that two of Mrs. Fiske's most devout worshippers, Charles Hanson Towne and Alexander Woolcott, nurse such mutual dislike they will not stay in the same room together.

Thingumabob: Werner Janssen can't stay away from a Mickey Mouse film. Willie Collier has seldom worn anything but a polka dot bow tie. The $5 cent table d'hôte vin compris has returned to the 40's. The Prince of Wales has a black canary with a yellow head. Ralph Spence was the first $50,000 a year scenarist in Hollywood. Clifton Webb wore the first white saved-off evening vest.

One of the sillies: A hotel patron in a packed inn. After pleading, the clerk agreed to put him in a room with a Gen. McNobb. He crept quietly to bed, awakened early and left. The elevator man greeted him: "Good morning, General." The day clerk: "Mornin' General." Same salutation from head porter and carriage starter. Idling in perplexity at the curb a moment, he suddenly beamed: "I know. They awakened the wrong fellow."

These may be at the best of those in places of power and prestige and are likely to partake of the element of chance, speculation, gaming or pure friendship. Such opportunities should be wisely and discreetly manipulated with tendencies to excess, extravagance and indulgence duly regulated.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year in which there are excellent prospects for promoting the position and increasing the fortune, particularly through the friendship and cooperation of those in places of power. And while there is an element of chance and speculation, yet such propitious prospects should not be impeded by extravagance or self-indulgence.

A child born on this day may have an extravagant and indulgent disposition, with much popularity.

HEALTH

Pellagra is Prevented By Proper Diet

NO ONE will deny that the application of an adequate knowledge of diet is a great aid in fighting off acute disease and chronic ill health.

Despite the many hardships of the depression, the health of the nation has been little affected. This can be attributed in large measure to a better understanding of nutrition and food value, and to better feeding of thousands of families who would not have been looked after in better times.

Up to a few years ago pellagra was a common disease in many of the southern states. In one state, during the year 1929, the deaths from this disease totaled eight hundred. Poor dietary habits were probably responsible for this. A diet consisting to a large extent of such foods as corn meal, corn bread, mush and hominy, salt pork and cane molasses, does not contain sufficient of those dietary essentials necessary to prevent pellagra.

Was Much Confusion

For many years there was a great deal of confusion about pellagra. Today we know it is a vitamin-deficiency disease. By this is meant, pellagra is due to a lack in the diet of one of those interesting substances, vitamin G.

The victim of this disease first complains of digestive disturbances, nervousness, a feeling of weakness and perhaps dizziness. The most characteristic sign is the eruption which appears on the back of the hands, forearms, feet, front of the neck and other parts. It is this rash which aids in distinguishing the disease from other skin disorders.

Digestion Unset

In addition to this disturbance of the skin, there is a marked digestive upset, with persistent or periodic attacks of diarrhea. Mental changes appear, the victim becoming irritable and melancholic. He may even suffer from hallucinations, stupor and convulsions.

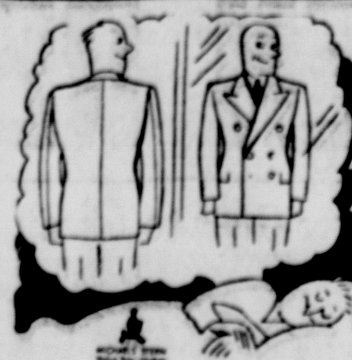

The disease rarely appears in districts where fresh fruits, vegetables, milk and other nourishing substances are available. In those sections of the country that are deprived of essential foods because of flood, drought, hurricane or other catastrophe, the disease is not easily averted.

The pellagra preventing foods are lean meats, eggs, wheat germ, tomatoes and a variety of vegetables and fruits. The needed vitamin is found most abundantly in a pure culture of yeast.

Beet leaves, buttermilk, cream, fresh milk, condensed milk, evaporated milk, fresh skimmed milk, fresh or canned spinach, and leafy vegetables are all rich in vitamin G, the "anti-pellagic" vitamin. Fresh liver and liver extract are sources of this vitamin. Canned salmon is an inexpensive and valuable food for those suffering from pellagra. Pellagra can be prevented and controlled by the use of a diet that is varied, well-balanced and containing foods rich in vitamin G.

WHEAT FARMERS TO VOTE ON AAA
Continuance of Domestic Control Rests Upon Outcome

(By Associated Press)
KANSAS CITY, April 19.—Ballots cast at cross-roads stores and country schoolhouses next month will give Uncle Sam the information on just what his farming nephews think of the AAA wheat adjustment program.

A 95 per cent turnout of wheat farmers in the nation is the goal of federal officials now in the field making preparations for the referendum which will determine whether the domestic production control program of 1933-35 is to be continued for the next four years.

George P. Farrell, chief of the grain section of the AAA, and his assistants have been touring the wheat belt instructing field men on procedure for the poll, which must be completed by May 25.

With farmer officials in charge, the balloting will be done on the day selected in each community from 9 a. m. until 8 p. m. under

Hints On Health
By Red Cross
Beware of Poison
All poisonous drugs, even iodine, should be kept in a locked box far back on the top shelf of your medicine cabinet. Too many people have gone to the bathroom at night and taken poison by mistake. Besides plainly marking the box it is wise to fix a strip of adhesive tape over the cork of each bottle so it can't be opened without removing the safeguard and realizing the danger.

"Dillingers" Hanged

RAINS FALL ON DUST SECTORS

In North Dakota, However, 125 Persons Driven From Homes

(By Associated Press)
AMARILLO, Tex., April 19.—Rain brought joy and renewed hope to the southern edge of the dust belt today.

Downpours and heavy showers visited a wide area in the dust torn Texas panhandle yesterday and last night, benefitting the wheat crop and grazing lands. In addition to bringing relief from the blowing sand and silt.

The Oklahoma panhandle, where the residents have prayed for rain, reported only clouds, however, and the dust stricken sections of Kansas, Colorado and New Mexico still waited for moisture.

The precipitation near Childress,
Tex., amounted to about two inches, and at Quanah two inches of rain fell in less than 30 minutes.
A cloudburst flooded cellars at Tillman, in southwestern Oklahoma, and there were soaking rains at other points in the state.

While the dust storms abated somewhat over the rest of the stricken sector, emergency hospitals were opened in Baca county
Colorado, to care for patients.

Pneumonia, aggravated by dust, was held responsible for the death of Charles Williams, 68, at Springfield.

Driven from their Sheridan county, North Dakota homes by dust storms, 125 persons passed through Livingston, Mont., yesterday.
Traveling in battered motor cars,

some loaded down with home furnishings, the emigrants hoped to find work and new homes in Montana and Idaho.

They said they had decided to leave after the wind had blown a steady gale for three days and nights.

Good Comedy Feature At State Now; Vaudeville Story at Grand Saturday

THERE is a robust and colorful comedy about real folk that should appeal to everyone from six to 60 at the State theater today and Saturday in "McFadden's Flat," which introduces to the film public, Walter Kelly of beloved vaudeville memory.

Irish vs Scotch
Kelly acts a rough speaking but soft-hearted Irishman who rises from brick laying to wealth. Opposite him is Andy Clyde, acting an economical Scotchman and Kelly's ancient, friendly enemy. The picture deals with the feud between these two lovable hard shells, and the romance between their children which finally brings their fathers together. Even though Kelly and Clyde pretend to be on the coolest of terms there is a genuine affection between them. When Kelly's building projects are endangered by a financial shortage Clyde secretly posts the money to aid him. The illusion of wealth prompts Kelly to send his daughter, played by Betty Furness, away to finishing school, thus breaking up her romance with Clyde's son, played by Richard Cromwell.

Kelly, however, over extends himself, and when the day of reckoning comes, he learns that Clyde has been helping him. All comes out happily in the end when the two old cronies put their heads together and inveigle a millionaire into lending financial support to the business. When the romantic breach between their children is healed, the old feudists have nothing left to fight about and settle down to being just friends with an argument every now and then. Kelly in his first film role is the classic McFadden. He plays the part with obvious pleasure and polish. Jane Darwell as his wife shares honors with him and with Clyde as the Scotchman.

New Child Sensation

"MILLION DOLLAR BABY" is scheduled for showing at the Grand Saturday and Sunday. Jimmy Fay, new four-year-old picture find, enacts the title role. Others in the cast are Arline Judge, Ray Walker, Jeanette Loff, George E. Stone and Ralf Harolde.

Adapted from the story by Joseph Stanley, the picture depicts the life of Terry and Grace Sweeney, whose vaudeville act is broken up when the authorities refuse to allow their son Pat to go on with them. Hearing of the search of a motion picture concern for a little girl to act in a certain picture, they disguise Pat as a girl and enter him. He wins the contest with his sweet manners and dimpled smile, but it is the intrigue and resourcefulness that he uses to blackmail his parents that provide many hilarious situations.

Besides writing the story Stanley also wrote the musical score which includes "I'm On a Diet of Love" and "Daddy's Gone Town." Tiny as he is, Jimmy Fay is a distinct find and he has a splendid opportunity to display his talents as he plays his dual role in this picture.

KEEP ON TOP O' THE WORLD

When you're feeling well, you're usually happy. Life is at its best. But when you're sick and blue, days lose their zest. You lack enthusiasm.

Common constipation, due to insufficient "bulk" in meals, is an enemy of happy living. It frequently causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy. Correct it by eating a delicious cereal.

Kellogg's All-Bran is a natural food for normal persons. It furnishes generous "bulk" to aid elimination. All-Bran also provides vitamin B and iron.

Isn't this gentle food safer than risking patent medicines? Unlike cathartics, it remains effective with continued use. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve All-Bran as a cereal with milk or cream, or use in cooking. Sold by all grocers. In the red and green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Sick Champs

A VICTORY is always more glorious when it is achieved in the face of seemingly insurmountable odds and it is always a great story when an athlete climbs out of a sick bed to defeat a formidable opponent of thoroughly healthy adversaries.

The case of Olin Dutra is a case in point. The swarthy (shabby) of the links was a very sick man during the last National Open, and those that saw of his illness would have said a thousand to one that he wouldn't cop the crown.

Dutra, showing extraordinary toughness (and to think that some questioned his courage before he battled his way through the gruelling route, suffering excruciating pain all the while—and similar cases could be cited.

JIMMY WILSON, brainy backstop who bosses the Phils, is hoping against hope that his phubler will end up a couple notches higher in the final 1935 standings. But it must be admitted that James is in a tough spot.

Youngsters

ROGER HORNBURY may not be able to lift the St. Louis Browns to a very high notch in the American league standing, but the young and thoroughly capable leaguer will always put a winning team on the field that will give more powerful outfits a headache before October is out again.

The Rajah is trying to develop a team of youngsters that can be counted on to improve with experience.

Several youngsters, such as Harlan Giff, brilliant third sacker, and Frank Newsome, colorful mound-sapper, developed into stars of the league in their first big league season and Hornbury's counting up on heavily in the present campaign.

Giff, in particular, is a star.

A comparatively small man, he packs plenty of dynamite in the side, and is a "natural" in the field. The brilliant St. Louis kid has inspired baseball and has the temperament of a great player.

Athletic School

The physical education department of Ohio State university is preparing for its largest summer school. Athletic Director L. W. St. John announced. The summer quarter starts June 17 and closes Aug. 30. The quarter is divided into two terms, the first closing July 24.

A complete program of training for both graduates and undergraduates will be offered in the field of physical and health education, with special opportunity for study in athletic coaching.

Colleges Send Spike-Shod Athletes For 13th Annual Event

(By Associated Press) LAWRENCE, Kas., April 19. — Rain-washed atmosphere and a firm cinder track today welcomed the vanguard of a thousand spike-shod athletes from three score colleges bent upon record-breaking performances in the 13th renewal of the Kansas relays.

The carnival management set to meet the fears expressed by coaches from distant places that swirling dust storms might handicap their men, and added the testimonial of Glenn Cunningham that conditions were favorable.

After sprinting 440 yards at a hot clip in the final tune-up for the special eight-furlong race against a mile duo and a pacing relay team, Cunningham declared everything was shipshape and that, barring a resumption of the rain, records were likely to be altered by the largest field in Kansas relays history.

The first five events of the day, drawing a record field of 13 for all the all-around test, were programmed for this afternoon and the last five will be run off Saturday morning along with the preliminaries in the sprints and hurdle races.

Cunningham's appearance will be a 21-event program—10 specials for individuals and 13 relays—scheduled to begin at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

23 School Teams Entered In Ninth Annual Salem Night Relays May 4

Reilly Stadium Again To Be Scene Of Gala Track & Field Meet

New Records Expected To Be Established When Ohio Scholastic Cindermen Strut Their Stuff Here; Last Year's Champ, Cleveland Lincoln, Returns

The date is fast-approaching for the sixth annual Salem Night Relays, for which 23 schools already have entered, according to word today by Salem High School Principal Wilbur J. Springer, manager of the event.

Reilly field and stadium will buzz with activity on Saturday, May 4, when these 23 leading Northeastern Ohio schools, send their best thin-clad material to compete in the carnival.

New records are expected to be set in this season's meet, prognosticators say. Cleveland Lincoln, which took the meet last year from its neighborhood foe, Cleveland Shaw, 37 to 36.1, is among entries this season.

Previous to last year the Quaker cindermen captured the title for four straight years.

Besides the two Cleveland teams mentioned, the other entrants for this year's relays are: Sebring, Leetonia, four Akron schools, Garfield, Buchtel, South and West, Alliance, Kent Roosevelt, Barborton, Youngstown Rayen, East Palestine, Cleveland Garfield, Boardman, McDonald, Louisville, Cleveland Shaw, Howland, Leavittsburg, Ravenna, Poland, Harding High at Warren and Salem.

Last year 24 teams competed, 313 athletes competing in the events. The attendance was recorded at practically 1,000. The weather last season as some will remember, was fair, but cool. Good weather conditions are anticipated this season.

As observed last year preliminaries will be held at 2:30 p. m. and the finals at 7:30 p. m., Springer pointed out today.

Both Springer and Track Coach Fred Cope, who have been watching the Salem tracksters go through practice meets, expect some new records in the May 4 track show.

Records of past relays as they stand today are:

100-yd. dash—Mackusson, (Akron North), 1932, 16.2 sec. (Salem), 1934, 16.1 seconds.

Pole vault—Ed Beck, (Salem), 1932, 11 ft. 9 1/2 in.

Shot put—Lambeth, (Canfield), 1934, 47 ft. 4 1/2 in.

Two-mile relay—Salem, (I. Beck, Cooper, Wilms, Harris), 8 min. 40.5 sec.

Mile run—McMullen, (Akron Garfield), 1932, 4 min. 32 sec.

7 Schools Are In Tri-County Meet Here This Saturday

Lisbon, East Palestine, Leetonia, Columbiana, Sebring, Louisville and Boardman Are Set For Reilly Stadium Event

Cindermen from high schools in Lisbon, East Palestine, Leetonia, Sebring, Boardman, Columbiana and Louisville will rally here at Reilly field Saturday afternoon for a tri-county track and field meet, starting at 1:30 p. m. The event, managed by F. B. Drake of Lisbon, will be officiated over by Joe Kelley, Memorial building director.

The competing schools will send a wide range of talent for the regulation events. East Palestine looks especially good, having defeated Sharon, Pa., last Saturday in a nip and tuck affair. Coffee and Switzer loom as the best Bulldog runners.

Columbiana has an able distance man in Vaughn, who placed fifth last year in the state meet, running the mile.

Ralph Wagonhouse, Leetonia breeze, will carry the Leetonia flag here Saturday. In the state meet last season, Wagonhouse came in second in the quarter mile.

Boardman has a good dash man in Purucker.

Drake announced today that admission for the meet would be only 10 cents.

COPE TO TAKE 22 CINDER STARS TO MANSFIELD

Salem High school will have 22 Quaker cindermen in the ninth annual Mansfield Relays on Saturday. Coach Fred Cope announced today.

The actual entry list for the Mansfield event, one of the outstanding for Ohio high school athletes, grew to 45 today with the prediction that thinclads from 70 institutions would compete in the events.

Among the latest entrants are Tiffin Columbian, Kent Roosevelt, Ashabula Harbor, Columbus East, Columbus Central, Defiance, Elyria, Carey, Akron East, Bryan, Bellville, Wauseon and Cleveland Lincoln.

Harry Mehock, the relay manager, has announced that Bob Pettigrew, Ohio State student who recently transferred to the Big Ten school from Colgate, where he starred as a javelin thrower, will give an exhibition in his favorite event.

Pettigrew is ineligible for the Ohio State team this year because of his transfer. In the east, he was rated as one of the outstanding javelin throwers, consistently hurling the spear more than 200 feet.

Joe Looks Good For A Cripple

Hauser of Millers, Who Suffered Knee Hurt, Back In Uniform

(By Associated Press) CHICAGO, April 19.—For a fellow whose baseball career apparently was ended by a shattered kneecap late last season, Joe Hauser, Minneapolis "Unser Choe," is a pretty lively cripple.

His famous home run bat hasn't sounded off yet, but neither has he failed to hit for the Millers. Yesterday he contributed a pair of singles as Minneapolis defeated St. Paul 7 to 5, for its first victory of the young American association season.

Louisville swept its series with Toledo and moved to the top with three straight victories by slugging three mud hen pitchers for an 11 to 5 decision. The colonels collected 13 hits off Doljack, Buchanan and Walsh, bunched in the third, fourth and ninth innings. Dick Bass gave Toledo 10 hits, including Mike Powers' second home-run in two days.

The champion Columbus Red Birds scored a run in each of the first five innings and added three more in the seventh to defeat Indianapolis, 8 to 5. The victory squared the abbreviated series at one decision each.

Garland Braxton kept seven hits well spread out as Milwaukee made it two in a row over Kansas City, 6 to 1.

City Softball Teams Start Season May 6, Officials Announce

Set of Rules To Be Drafted At Meeting Next Thursday In Memorial Building; Joe Reese Takes Control of Arbitration Board

City Class A softball league managers and the board of arbitration, meeting Thursday night in the Memorial building, selected May 6 as the opening date for the mushball season this year. Four rounds will be observed by the participating teams in order to determine the winners.

Only tentative rules were drafted at last night's meeting and another session of the team managers and officials will be held next Thursday in the building for the purpose of putting the rules down in black and white.

Joe Reese was elected president of the board of arbitration last night after E. H. Taylor resigned as a member of the committee. That left Reese as the only member. Earl Beardmore resigned from the board last fall.

Reese has consented to handle the work of the board as a committee of one. At next Thursday's meeting assistance in drafting the new rules will be given by Joe Kelley, Sam Early and Charles Hinkley.

All team entries for this year's softball league must be received no later than next Thursday, it was announced today by officials. The season schedule will be drawn up at that time.

Among the teams which are probable entries for this season, are: The United Cigars, the American Legion, Salem Hardware, the Elks, Smith Creamery, Trade Class, National Sanitary, Salem China Pottery and Washingtonville.

Coach Lew Smith Calls End to Spring Practice Today

Coach Lew Smith announced this morning that he would conclude spring football practice with an honest-to-goodness scrimmage session after school today.

An idea of how next season's eleven may look can be visualized after the scrimmage session.

Cincinnati Reds Are Near Top In Senior League After Start

Lowly Reds Make Experts Blush With Their Unexpected Climb; Dessen's Youngsters Blast Pittsburgh, 9 to 4

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR. Associated Press Sports Writer

CINCINNATI, April 19.—The Cincinnati Reds, to whom the experts almost unanimously awarded the cellar berth in the National League this season, were only a step from first place today.

The hustling aggregation of youngsters assembled by Chuck Dessen and Larry Macphail, and the veterans who are fighting hard to hold their jobs, blasted out their second victory in three starts against Pittsburgh 9 to 4 yesterday. The other previous winners in the senior circuit, except Boston, lost.

Altogether, the Reds got 14 hits off five pitchers. Jim Bottomley and Sammy Byrd, former American leaguer, led the parade with three blows each.

The Cubs and Dodgers retired into the middle of the standing as the Cardinals and Phillies reversed opening-day decisions.

Two world series heroes, Paul Dean and Joe (Ducky) Medwick, gave St. Louis a 1 to 0 triumph over the Cubs. Brother Paul hurled an eight-hit shutout in a keen duel with Larry French, and Medwick belted a homer in the sixth for the only run.

The Phils had to go ten innings to gain a 10-9 decision over Brooklyn in a home run carnival which saw seven blows, two by Dolph Camilli, tall out of the "Bandbox" park. The seventh, launched by George Watkins, tied the score in the ninth.

The Senators rang up their second straight victory in the American League despite Jimmie Fox's feat of slugging his second homer in as many days, edging out the Athletics 6 to 5.

The Yankees turned the tables on Boston and knocked the Red Sox off the peak with a 4 to 0 triumph. Johnny Broaca granted only eight hits in a duel with Fred Ostermuelier.

Detroit's champion Tigers evened the count against Chicago, winning 5 to 4 largely because of the wildness of the Sox's pitchers. Joe Vance, who followed Les Tieje on the hill, handed Manager Mickey Cochrane the twelfth walk with the bases loaded in the ninth to force home the odd run.

The Indians and Braves remained undefeated with one victory apiece as cold weather forced the postponement of their games with the Browns and Giants, respectively.

Kelley, Runner-Up, May Plod To Victory In Boston Marathon

(By Associated Press)

BOSTON, April 19.—Four times since 1897, the runner-up in a Boston A. A. marathon has plodded to victory in his next start, and today Slim Johnny Kelley of Arlington may duplicate this feat.

This difficult trick of going from second to first in successive years was mastered first by the veteran Clarence Demar in 1911, when the Keene, N. H., schoolmaster gained the first of his seven victories in this tortuous 26 miles 385 yards grind over the hills between Hopkinton and Boston.

Montreal's Blouard Fabre, the sixth of the classic seven Canadian victors, qualified for this select quarter in 1913, as did Charles Miller of Chicago 10 years later.

While Kelley strives for such success, Dave Komonen of Sudbury, Ont., will attempt the Herculean task of winning this race twice in succession. J. J. Caffrey of Hamilton, Ont., was the first to gain such a "double," and he stood alone until Demar led the pack three times in a row from 1922-24.

Besides Komonen and Demar, there will be four other former winners among the 21 listed to go to the starting line on the stroke of noon—Paul Debrun, Jimmy Henigan, Bill Kennedy and Leslie Pawson, holder of the course's 2:31:01 2-5 record.

More than a half-million spectators are attracted by this annual exhibition.

Messera No Match For Rosenbloom

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., April 19. Fistic fans of the cinema city were wondering today what might have happened to Charley Massera last night at the Legion stadium had Maxie Rosenbloom abandoned his slapping tactics and hit the Pittsburgh heavyweight with his fists doubled up.

The ex-light heavyweight champion, boxing's palm artist, failed his way to a one-sided decision over the Pennsylvania in a dull 19 round bout which was finished while a goodly share of the cash customers were rapidly emptying the Legion stadium.

Solons Enjoy Game

COLUMBUS, April 19.—The Ohio house convened at 11 a. m. yesterday, two hours earlier than usual and worked only through the noon hour.

The reason? They were guests of the Columbus Red Birds' baseball team at the Columbus-Indianapolis contest.

At Canton, O.—George Duettie, 178, France, three runs, three hits, 175, Australia; Marion Myester, 180, Charleston, W. Va., won from Ivan Rasputin, 200, Russia, by disqualification.

Robert Moses Grove Feels His Old Arm Could Aid Red Sox Once More

BY EDWARD J. NEIL, Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, April 19.—The hop is on the fast one again and everything is all right with that part of the baseball world populated by Robert Moses Grove.

"I never felt better in my life," the hope of the Boston Red Sox announced cheerfully today as he chewed on his pipe, successor to his favorite big black cigars.

"The fast one is hopping again," said the long, lean Lefty of the great Athletic days. "There hasn't been a twinge in my shoulder all spring."

"I'm ready to go any day Joe Cronin says. We're waiting until it warms up a little, just to be sure. But the way things look now, I'll be in there every three days, and if they need a few innings of relief work in between now and then, that will be all right, too."

More convincing than any 10,000 words the big Lefty, only a couple of years ago a pitching invincible, could utter is Grove's calm, carefree attitude, the real tipoff on what is going on in the mind of the old Lonaconing lighting.

Last spring and summer, when the arm Tom Yawkey paid Connie Mack some $125,000 for, went bad, Grove was morose, fretful, harassed. But no more.

"Taking out my tonsils did it," he said proudly. "My teeth didn't have anything to do with the soreness in my arm. The pain was right between the two big muscles at the top of my left shoulder and now everything's fine."

U.S. Navy Rowers Lack Experience
Naval Academy's Varsity Crew, However, Is Fast, Sturdy

BY RICHARD H. ELLIOTT, Associated Press Staff Writer
ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 19.—A varsity crew sturdy enough and fast enough but badly lacking in competitive experience is being whipped into shape to represent the U. S. Naval academy in this spring's rowing competition.

Only two of the oarsmen who brought Navy's colors from the rear to take third place in the blanket finish at the Poughkeepsie regatta last year were available to Coach Charles S. Walsh for developing a stroke and building his entire 1935 varsity crew.

Lost By Graduation
Graduation dealt a hard blow. Lost by this route were Archie Stone, stroke; Tim McMahon, No. 4; J. V. Smith, No. 3; W. A. Brockett, No. 2; Bill Goffin, bow, and Victor H. Krulak, coxswain.

Three veterans were on hand when the Navy flotilla of 13 boats including the varsity, junior varsity, third varsity, two freshman crews and eight 150-pound crews started working out on the Severn river in February. However, Ed McLean, in the No. 6 seat last spring, was taken ill. He has recovered sufficiently to be assigned a seat in the jayvee boat.

This ill luck left only Joe Hood, who had rowed No. 7, and Tom Baldwin, No. 5.

In addition to Hood, who will stroke, the varsity boasting is: Dick Gray, No. 7; Baldwin, No. 6; A. F. Fleming, No. 5; Edward Hoffman, No. 4; J. S. Gray, No. 3; W. N. McGill, No. 2; C. Austin, bow, and William Higgenbotham, coxswain.

DERBY STARS TAKEN OUT FOR LIGHT DRILLS

(By Associated Press)
LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 19.—Trainers of Chance Sun, the favorite, and of three other of the best of the Kentucky Derby candidates training here, let them out today and the quartet showed some of the class expected.

What the turf experts termed the best of the workouts was that by Weston, Jovett Shouse's nominee. The black colt went the full Derby mile and a quarter. He was clocked for the half at :49 1-5, three-quarters in 1:14 3-5, and the mile in 1:41, breeding. Then he galloped out the remaining quarter in 2:11 4-5.

Chance Sun covered a mile handily. The winter book favorite, nominated by Joseph E. Widener, was timed at the quarter in :49 4-5, three-quarters in 1:15 3-5, and the mile in 1:41 4-5.

St. Bernard breezed three-quarters in 1:15 and finished the mile, pulled up, in 1:42. Finance, also from the Cold stream stud, was timed in :35 2-5 for three-eighths and was pulled up at the half in :48 3-5.

At Kalamazoo, Mich. — Chuck Woods, 141, Detroit, outpointed Lou Vine, 138, Chicago (10); Bud Baer, 246, Livermore, Calif., outpointed Eddie Anderson, 206, Detroit (4); Max Baer, world heavyweight champion, and Battling D. Eri, Pa., exhibition (4).

A Review of the Day's News

By Arthur Brisbane

GREATER THAN the government's income have been the profits of organized crime, bootlegging, racketeering.

You realize that crime has been a "business" when the United States government proves to you that it is a "business" by the way it handles it. Arthur Brisbane, formerly a profit of about two million dollars taken from taxpayers and prosperity needlessly.

OCCASIONAL long flights, of the "stunt" order, are important indications of what is to come.

News that a "Pan-American clipper ship" in the regular course of commercial income-producing business, has made a flight from California to Honolulu, two thousand four hundred miles, in eighteen hours and thirty-one minutes, breaking all records for that "hop", means that real flying is here.

THIS FLIGHT means that big airships, of great carrying capacity, can NOW fly from the United States to Asia or to Europe with ease. And, what is most important is the fact, that, with equal ease hostile airships could fly from Europe or Asia to the United States.

WHEN A DOG bites a man, or pulls his drowning master out of the water, or saves the lives of a sleeping family by waking everybody up, as fire starts, that is not news. You know it.

The conduct of a police dog in New York City is news. The dog was lying fast asleep at the feet of Mrs. Greta Larsen, aged 55, Miss Mary Canzal, aged 32, and Mr. Robert Morales, when fire engines passed roaring through the night by the house.

Much excited, the dog jumped through the open window, ran all the way around the block, came back and savagely bit the two ladies. Both were removed to the hospital to be treated for bites in the ears, arms, shoulders.

Before confiding absolutely in the protection of the so-called police dog, close relation of the wolf, it might be well to have the animal psychoanalyzed, especially if you happen to have young children about.

THE LEAGUE of Nations unanimously condemns Germany, and Germany, almost unanimously, pays little attention. The league council at Geneva is busy "storing up penalties for the future", but dictators do not worry about things that ever happen in the future.

Hitler has proved, not for the first time in history, that treaties are made largely to be broken, especially such treaties as that made at Versailles.

When the French, in the revolution, were getting rid of monarchy, and laying the foundations of the present republic, Danton warned his associates that their success would depend on "audacity, more audacity, always audacity."

Hitler seems to have read that.

A NEWSPAPER representing Chancellor Hitler says: "The time has passed when Germany has bowed to dictation." Such times pass, and sometimes return.

France bowed to dictation when tall Bismarck sat in the palace at Versailles, in the room of many mirrors, and dictated a treaty of peace.

Nearly fifty years later came Germany's turn, and she bowed to the latest Versailles treaty.

Whose turn will come next, history will tell.

P. L. GASSAWAY, a genuine cowboy, now representing the Fourth District of Oklahoma in Congress, has not yet learned to use the language of statesmanship, which means the language of a clothing store dummy. He writes:

"With this old age pension, and the soldiers bonus, Lemke's bill, Huey Long's, ain't life a hell of a mess? I am really sorry I ever went into the movies. Calling Congress 'the movies' is a new appellation."

Leetonia Kiwanis Has Meeting; Fred Owens In Relays

LEETONIA, April 19.—The Kiwanis club held its weekly meeting at the Presbyterian church Tuesday evening. The ladies of the church served the dinner with covers laid for 20. Fred W. Wiedmayer spoke on "Going South." Mr. Wiedmayer returned Friday from Florida where he has spent the winter for several years. James Kunkel favored with a piano solo. Guests of the club were Lee D. Royer and Valentine Fisher. The attendance prize given by Robert Marshall, was awarded to

Mr. Wiedmayer. Next week the club will be hosts to the clubs of the 10th division at St. Paul's Lutheran church, with dinner at 6:30 p. m. Ben A. Arenson of Delaware, governor of the Ohio district, will be the guest speaker. Entertainment will be furnished by the "Oleaners" popular quartet heard daily from WTAM, Cleveland. All clubs of the county, together with clubs from Mingo Junction, Steubenville and Toronto in Jefferson county and Canton, Alliance and Akron, will be represented. Orville Bates, Clark Marshall, T. B. Cope and I. F. Mellinger comprise the committee in charge of the arrangements. The Dorcas society of St. Paul's Lutheran church was entertained at the home of Mrs. Galen Lodge, Tuesday evening.

John F. Pregenzer spent the weekend at the home of his son, Norman F. Pregenzer and family, at Youngstown. Mrs. Pregenzer accompanied him home after several days visit at the home of her son. Jack Holt, a student at the School for Deaf Children, Columbus, is spending his vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Holt, Sr.

NAUGATUCK, Conn.—For several years Thomas Tommendo thought his tax bill a bit high, but so long as he had the money he didn't complain. "The Cold Finger Curse"

by EDWIN DIAL TORGERSON

SYNOPSIS

The crowd had gathered as usual at June and Jimmy Kirkman's place at Two-Sixty-Eight Waverley Place, habitat of artists and their ilk. Among them are St. Gregory Valcours, a pseudo artist, Roger Duane, a specialty dancer, and dignified Douglas W. Coultny, the only non-artistic person in the house. They are awaiting the arrival of wealthy Mrs. Charles Elderbank who has just purchased the house next door. Valcours says Mr. Elderbank, who is sixty-two and twenty years his wife's senior, lives in Canada and approves of her going around with a chap named Merriam. Jimmy notices a stranger watching the house and Valcours says, "If it's a process server looking for me, I'm not here." Later Detective Stranning arrives, looking for Valcours, but Jimmy shields the latter. Stranning claims there is no charge against the artist, but he is wanted for questioning. Violet Elderbank and her handsome escort, Price Merriam arrive. Unknown to Violet, Merriam was really employed by her husband to guard her. Because of her personal jewelry, Elderbank feared for his wife's safety. Violet invites the whole crowd to her house-warming. When she and Merriam leave, Valcours walks to their door with them. As Valcours is about to return home Detective Stranning emerges from the shadows and arrests him.

The detention of St. Gregory Valcours caused no excitement at Two-Sixty-Eight Waverley Place the following day, or for several days after that, for the reason that the news was not made public. Valcours, following the search of his studio by Detective Stranning, had accompanied that officer to headquarters. The following morning he had been released.

It was not until the following Monday, the day set for Mrs. Elderbank's party, that Glenn Thurber, in the course of his newspaper questings, heard of the affair at police headquarters.

He told Marjorie Clarken about it at noon, for he had a luncheon engagement with her at Lox's. "It had to do with the theft of some paintings from the Henderson Galleries," Glenn related. "Valcours, it seems, went up there with a stack of his bum paintings one time when they were having an exhibition. They booted him out. The same day there was a theft committed—some stuff of genuine merit, by Voight and Drunkle and others, was lifted from the Galleries. A guard remembered seeing Valcours going out with an armful of canvases, and that is why he was suspected. But they found nothing in his studio when they searched it, and I understand he is no longer suspected."

Marjorie was thrilled. "I told you, I told you, didn't I?" she demanded. "I knew he was the man I saw going around with dark goggles and his hat brim turned down. I told you there was something mysterious about him."

"Well, it's what you're looking for, isn't it?" rallied Glenn. "Romance, Adventure and Mystery in Greenwich Village. I don't know whether Valcours is guilty of theft, but he ought to be arrested for the things he paints. Haven't seen them, have you?"

"Not yet, but I must. Are they awful?"

"Terrible. A child could do no worse. His masterpiece is a water-color, 'Goldfish Surrounded by Blue.' It's just a heavy smear of blue paint, with an asymmetrical goldfish, sort of hump-backed, in the center. But he does sell his stuff now and then. There seems no limit to human gullibility. What did you think of the party the other night?"

"Sweet," declared Marjorie. "I'm thrilled about tonight. I liked Mrs. Elderbank and her—escort. Didn't you?"

"I'm not so hot for the escort."

"Why? Because he's so good-looking?"

"Is he?"

"Hm! Coultny made a hit with you, too, did he?"

"Hm! I wouldn't rave over him, if I were a woman."

"Well, can't I admire a man objectively if I want to—as a work of art?"

"If you must."

"For Pete's sake, idiot, you're not jealous, are you?"

"Jealous! Who's jealous?" demanded Glenn, with a self-accusing shade of irritability. "Certainly I am not. Admire Coultny all you wish, and Price Merriam, too. But you'd better not go too far with Price, or Mrs. Elderbank will be likely to whang you over the head with the Russian crown jewels or something."

"Them gems! Did you ever see anything so magnificent?" She seems to wear them with good effect, at that."

"Ever heard of her uptown—I mean in the right tone of voice?"

"Oh, mother knows her—or knows of her. She goes places—she's not forgotten when charity events demand flexible check writing. Oh, she's all right; as good as many in the Register, I'd say. But a bit conventional for the grand dames, you know—that perfect specimen of male scenery who trots around with her."

"Would you want to run around with a shirt and cigarette ad model, if I were an aged and doting husband and you were my twenty-two-years-younger wife?"

"I believe, sir," said Marjorie, wrinkling her nose at him, "that in our most recent pour parlers on that subject we agreed there was to be no discussion between us of the well-known institution of marriage until—"

"Until—I know!" Glenn said humorously. "I know what I'll do—I'll flick the million dollar gems of the rich Mrs. Elderbank, and then I'll have enough to swing it."

"Let's don't," procured Marjorie. "Let's go around to Stagger Inn and see Mr. Valcours' masterpieces. Shall we?"

"Suits me. I want to ask him why he was pinched."

They found St. Gregory Valcours in his basement studio, assiduously admiring his own paintings, which he was eyeing critically in the best light available.

He was glad to see them, but was shocked and dismayed when Glenn mentioned the Henderson Galleries.

"Oh, where did you hear of that?" he cried. "Please, please don't say anything about it. Mr. Thurber—it will ruin me with Mrs. Elderbank and Mr. Coultny—and all my rich patrons."

"He isn't going to say anything about it," promised Marjorie Clarken. "He told me, and I'm the only one he's going to tell. They found they had made a mistake, didn't they?"

"They put me in the line-up with a lot of greasy crooks and dope heads," whined Valcours, "and let a lot of strong-arm boys with masks look me over. Then they turned me loose and told me to watch my step hereafter. I ask you, by heaven, is this a free country, or is it Stussia? Keeping me in jail all night, for nothing!"

"But they can't do a thing like that," said Marjorie indignantly. "It's unconstitutional."

"Maybe that's why they do it,"

put in the cynical Glenn. "Everybody's undoing it. If you do anything constitutional nowadays you are a Victorian simp."

"I do so want to see your pictures, Mr. Valcours," declared Marjorie by way of balm for his feelings.

"Yes, the 'Goldfish' with the Blue," suggested Glenn.

"Oh, that one isn't here," said Valcours regretfully. "It's upstairs in Mr. Coultny's apartment, and he isn't home. I left some of my best work with him."

"Mr. Coultny is one of your patrons, eh?" queried Glenn.

"Oh, he is interested in my work and he has influential friends. But the 'Goldfish' I am saving for Mrs. Elderbank. You saw it—didn't you, Mr. Thurber?—when I had it on exhibition in the window of the Art Mart, that shop on Eighth Street?"

"Oh, yes. It was there for weeks, wasn't it?"

"For months," corrected Valcours, and added quickly: "I didn't want them to see it, you see—I wanted it there as a sort of permanent exhibit. How do you like this one, Miss Clarken? I call it, 'Bleak Day on Bleeker Street.'"

"Most arresting," exclaimed Marjorie, without intending a pun. "Such insinuating impressionism!"

"Positively!" agreed Valcours. "The color values are tremendous," proclaimed Glenn Thurber gravely.

"Absolutely!"

"You are equally at home in oils or water-colors," observed Marjorie, her lips compressed as she looked about.

"Yes, but my best work really is in water-colors."

"And I've got to get back to my best work, Marge," Glenn reminded her. "We can look in on Mr. Valcours another time."

"Nothing would please me more," said Valcours eagerly. "See you both at the party tonight, won't I?"

"Oh, yes, indeed."

BEFORE YOU BUY A Refrigerator

See These New Modern 1935 Air Conditioned ICE Refrigerators

With perfected AIR CONDITIONING and the most modern "air-flow" lines, finish and hardware, the ice refrigerator has taken its place in the front rank of modern food preservation cabinets. People everywhere who have investigated how much more advanced these new units are in the more modern interpretation of food preservation not only buy but enthusiastically recommend them.

Before you buy a refrigerator decide that you want the most advanced type of refrigeration. If you buy an ice refrigerator think of it in terms of a life time investment—not something that has a one, three or five year service limit on it. Ten years from today you will still have a beautiful glistening unit, with positive air conditioning, with safe temperatures for all foods and the assurance that fresh perishable foods will not be dried out by dry thirsty air.

We have many styles to choose from and capacities for all family requirements. You will find that you can buy the popular 6 cubic foot capacity cabinet for about seventy dollars less than substitute cabinets or enough to modernize the rest of your kitchen. We invite you to see what your money will buy in practical refrigeration. That's what we are selling and that's why the nation-wide swing is back to normal, natural ice refrigeration.

THE GUMPS—HEART BALM

"The Cold Finger Curse"

by EDWIN DIAL TORGERSON

SYNOPSIS

The crowd had gathered, as usual at June and Jimmy Kirkman's place at Two-Sixty-Eight Waverly Place, habitat of artists and their ilk. Among them were St. Gregory Valcour, a pseudo artist, Roger Duane, a specialty dancer, and dignified Douglas W. Coultray, the only non-artistic person in the house. They are awaiting the arrival of wealthy Mrs. Charles Elderbank who has just purchased the house next door. Valcour says Mr. Elderbank, who is sixty-two and twenty years his wife's senior, lives in Canada and approves of her going around with a chap named Merriam. Jimmy notices a strange watching the house and Valcour says, "If it's a process server looking for me, I'm not here." Later Detective Stranning arrives, looking for Valcour, but Jimmy shields the latter. Stranning claims there is no charge against the artist, but he is wanted for questioning. Violet Elderbank and her handsome escort, Price Merriam arrive. Unknown to Violet, Merriam was really employed by her husband to guard her. Because of her penchant for jewelry, Elderbank feared for his wife's safety. Violet invites the whole crowd to her house-warming. When she and Merriam leave, Valcour walks to their door with them. As Valcour is about to return home Detective Stranning emerges from the shadows and arrests him.

The detention of St. Gregory Valcour caused no excitement at Two-Sixty-Eight Waverly Place the following day, or for several days after that, for the reason that the news was not made public. Valcour, following the search of his studio by Detective Stranning, had accompanied that officer to headquarters. The following morning he had been released.

It was not until the following Monday, the day set for Mrs. Elderbank's party, that Glenn Thurber, in the course of his newspaper questings, heard of the affair at police headquarters.

He told Marjorie Clark about it at noon, for he had a luncheon engagement with her at Lori's. "It had to do with the theft of some paintings from the Henderson Galleries," Glenn related. "Valcour, it seems, went up there with a stack of his bum paintings one time when they were having an exhibition. They booted him out. The same day there was a theft committed—some stuff of genuine merit, by Voight and Drucklieb and others, was lifted from the Galleries. A guard remembered seeing Valcour going out with an armful of canvases, and that is why he was suspected. But they found nothing in his studio when they searched it, and I understand he is no longer suspected."

Marjorie was thrilled. "I told you, I told you, didn't I?" she demanded. "I knew he was the man I saw going around with dark goggles and his hat brim turned down. I told you there was something mysterious about him."

"Well, it's what you're looking for, isn't it?" rallied Glenn. "Romance, Adventure and Mystery in Greenwich Village. I don't know whether Valcour is guilty of theft, but he ought to be arrested for the things he paints. Haven't seen them, have you?"

"Not yet, but I must. Are they awful?"

"Terrible. A child could do no worse. His masterpiece is a water-color, 'Goldfish Surrounded by Blue.' It's just a heavy smear of blue paint, with an asymmetrical goldfish, sort of hump-backed, in the center. But he does sell his stuff now and then. There seems no limit to human gullibility. What did you think of the party the other night?"

"Swell," declared Marjorie. "I'm thrilled about tonight. I liked Mrs. Elderbank and her escort. Didn't you?"

"I'm not so hot for the escort."

"Why? Because he's so good-looking?"

"Is he?"

"Hm! Coultray made a hit with you, too, did he?"

"Hm! I wouldn't rave over him, if I were a woman."

"Well, can't I admire a man objectively if I want to—as a work of art?"

"If you must."

"For Pete's sake, idiot, you're not jealous, are you?"

"Jealous? Who's jealous?" demanded Glenn, with a self-accusing shade of irritability. "Certainly I am not. Admire Coultray all you wish, and Price Merriam, too. But you'd better not go too far with Price, or Mrs. Elderbank will be likely to whang you over the head with the Russian crown jewels or something."

"Them gems! Did you ever see anything so magnificent?" She seems to wear them with good effect, at that."

"Ever heard of her uptown—I mean in the right tone of voice?"

"Oh, mother knows her—or knows of her. She goes places—she's not forgotten when charity events demand flexible check writing. Oh, she's all right; as good as many in the Register, I'd say. But a bit conventional for the grand dames, you know—that perfect specimen of male scenery who trots around with her."

"Would you want to run around with a shirt and cigarette ad model, if I were an aged and doting husband and you were my twenty-two-years-younger wife?"

"I believe, sir," said Marjorie, wrinkling her nose at him, "that in our most recent pour parlers on that subject we agreed there was to be no discussion between us of the well-known institution of marriage until—"

"Until—I know!" Glenn said humorously. "I know what I'll do—I'll filch the million dollar gems of the rich Mrs. Elderbank, and then I'll have enough to swing it."

"Let's don't," proposed Marjorie. "Let's go around in Stagger Inn and see Mr. Valcour's masterpieces. Shall we?"

"Suits me. I want to ask him why he was pinched."

"They found St. Gregory Valcour in his basement studio, assiduously admiring his own paintings, which he was eyeing critically in the best light available."

He was glad to see them, but was shocked and dismayed when Glenn mentioned the Henderson Galleries.

"Oh, where did you hear of that?" he cried. "Please, please don't say anything about it. Mr. Thurber—it will ruin me with Mrs. Elderbank and Mr. Coultray—and all my rich patrons."

"He isn't going to say anything about it," promised Marjorie Clark. "He told me, and I'm the only one he's going to tell. They found they had made a mistake, didn't they?"

"They put me in the line-up with a lot of greasy crooks and dope heads," whined Valcour, "and let a lot of strong-arm boys with masks look me over. Then they turned me loose and told me to watch my step hereafter. I ask you, by heaven, is this a free country, or is it Russia? Keeping me in jail all night, for nothing!"

"But they can't do a thing like that," said Marjorie indignantly. "It's unconstitutional."

"Maybe that's why they do it,"

put in the cynical Glenn. "Everybody's undoing it. If you do anything constitutional nowadays you are a Victorian simp."

"I do so want to see your pictures, Mr. Valcour," declared Marjorie by way of balm for his feelings.

"Yes, the 'Goldfish' with the Blues," suggested Glenn.

"Oh, that one isn't here," said Valcour regretfully. "It's upstairs in Mr. Coultray's apartment, and he isn't home. I left some of my best work with him."

"Mr. Coultray is one of your patrons, eh?" queried Glenn.

"Oh, he is interested in my work, and he has influential friends. But the 'Goldfish' I am saving for Mrs. Elderbank. You saw it—didn't you, Mr. Thurber?—when I had it on exhibition in the window of the Art Mart, that shop on Eighth Street?"

"Oh, yes. It was there for weeks, wasn't it?"

"For months," corrected Valcour, and added quickly: "I didn't want them to sell it, you see—I wanted it there as a sort of permanent exhibit. How do you like this one, Miss Clarken? I call it, 'Bleak Day on Bleeker Street.'"

"Most arresting," exclaimed Marjorie, without intending a pun. "Such insinuation! Impressionism!"

"Positively!" agreed Valcour. "The color values are tremendous," proclaimed Glenn Thurber gravely.

"Absolutely!"

"You are equally at home in oils or water-colors," observed Marjorie, her lips compressed as she looked about.

"Yes, but my best work really is in water-colors."

"And I've got to get back to my best work, Marge," Glenn reminded her. "We can look in on Mr. Valcour another time."

"Nothing would please me more," said Valcour eagerly. "See you both at the party tonight, won't you?"

"Oh, yes, indeed."

BEFORE YOU BUY A Refrigerator

See These New Modern 1935 Air Conditioned ICE Refrigerators

With perfected AIR CONDITIONING and the most modern "air-flow" lines, finish and hardware, the ice refrigerator has taken its place in the front rank of modern food preservation cabinets. People everywhere who have investigated how much more advanced these new units are in the more modern interpretation of food preservation not only buy but enthusiastically recommend them.

Before you buy a refrigerator decide that you want the most advanced type of refrigeration. If you buy an ice refrigerator think of it in terms of a life time investment—not something that has a one, three or five year service limit on it. Ten years from today you will still have a beautiful glistening unit, with positive air conditioning, with safe temperatures for all foods and the assurance that fresh perishable foods will not be dried out by dry thirsty air.

We have many styles to choose from and capacities for all family requirements. You will find that you can buy the popular 6 cubic foot capacity cabinet for about seventy dollars less than substitute cabinets or enough to modernize the rest of your kitchen. We invite you to see what your money will buy in practical refrigeration. That's what we are selling and that's why the nation-wide swing is back to normal, natural ice refrigeration.

PERRY, Kan. — High school pupils here have no trouble understanding the moats they read of in medieval history, for there is one around their school building. The moat was built to keep termites away from the building after it was discovered the white ants were working on the foundations. Footbridges provide passage over the moat.
